MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Reference Branch, CIA Library

FROM: Assistant to the Director

SUBJECT: Bibliography of Allen W. Dulles

1. This office has requested that the bibliography of Allen Welsh Dulles designated "A Selective Bibliography" published 6 November 1958 as Bibliography No. 54-58 be brought up to date. The general form and type of material included should be similar to the earlier listing.
2. It seems unnecessary to add material concerning Congressional hearings to the earlier publication or to include references which are casual in nature in the present work. Extensive public testimony such as that included in the previous bibliography on pp. 4-5 might be listed.
3. Foreign periodicals and monitorings of foreign radio broadcasts need not, in general, be included, particularly those of a propagandistic nature.
4. Outstanding radio coverage in the United States, particularly lengthy network broadcasts and telecasts, might be included, but it is not necessary to include straight news stories which are probably based on nation-wide press services.
5. It is not necessary for our purposes to include photographs.
6. It is not necessary to include repetitions of the same article in numerous newspapers. The appearance in one newspaper of large circulation is sufficient reference.
7. It is desirable to include both the hardback books and their paperback reprints. It is not necessary, however, to list books which have only brief mentions, or paperback fiction of the lurid, sensational sort.
8. Since Mr. Dulles has now resigned as Director, the bibliography might well be cut off at December 10, 1961, which would include most stories growing out of his resignation and the swearing-in of Mr. McCone.
9. This bibliography, like its earlier counterpart, is intended to be "selective", and to include only important sources of references to Mr. Dulles. Brief or casual references need not be incorporated.

ALLEN WELSH DULLES

Allen Welsh Dulles, Director of Central Intelligence, lawyer, diplomat, world traveler, and America's leading intelligence expert, has served under both Republican and Democratic presidents in various Governmental positions of responsibility since 1916. He became Director of the CIA in 1953, succeeding General Walter Bedell Smith, whose deputy he had been.

Mr. Dulles was born in Watertown, New York, on April 7, 1893, the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Allen Macy Dulles. His father was a Presbyterian clergyman. His uncle, John Welsh, was envoy to England in the Hayes administration. There have been three Secretaries of State in the Dulles family: John Foster Dulles, under President Eisenhower; John Watson Foster (his maternal grandfather), under Benjamin Harrison; and Robert Lansing (Allen Dulles' uncle by marriage), under Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. Dulles is the author of several books and has received many honorary degrees. On October 16, 1920, he and Miss Clover Todd, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Henry A. Todd of Columbia University were married. Their son, a 2nd Lieutenant in the U.S. Marines, suffered most serious head wounds in the Korean War. The Dulleses also have two daughters.

In World War II Mr. Dulles was instrumental in effecting the unconditional surrender of the German forces in Italy.

President Eisenhower on 3 November 1959 said: "The reputation of your organization for quality and excellence, under the leadership of your Director, Mr. Allen Dulles, is a proud one."
